

The NSW Institute of Psychiatry

In collaboration with The Centre for Rural & Remote Mental Health we are pleased to announce the Rural and Remote Mental Health Course for General Practitioners

About this Course

This course will cover several key areas including health characteristics of rural communities, mental health emergency care, cultural competence and balancing professional and personal life in rural practice. Overall, this unit aims to help General Practitioners in rural areas enhance their response to and management of clients with mental health problems.

Outline

On completion of this course, participants will have a sound understanding of:

- Health of Rural Communities
- Cultural Diversity and Competency
- Professional Boundaries
- Emergency Mental Health Care
- Partnerships
- Clinical Supervision

Questions?

For more information about this course please visit our website: www.nswiop.nsw.edu.au

Or directly at:

NSW Institute of Psychiatry: (02) 9840 3833 or Tracy Robinson (CRRMH): (02) 6360 7896

Commences

Monday July 28th 2008

Cost

$1,090 (Early bird discount payable by 18/07/08)

$1,370 (Full fee)

Rural and Remote Mental Health Course for General Practitioners

www.nswiop.nsw.edu.au